GENERAL COMMENT:

During the Korean War, this district did not suffer any war damages. Until the Administrative Districts Reorganization, this district was the Yongch'ŏn county seat. Most of all the buildings in this district were constructed during the Japanese occupation as Japanese style structures. At present, the Yangsi Honorable Wounded Veterans' Hospital occupies a major portion of the buildings in this district, which were formerly used by governmental organizations. The characteristics of this district are that all the buildings occupied by the Yangsi Honorable Wounded Veterans' Hospital are painted in white, inside and outside, in order to observe sanitation.
